"I always wanted to try out being bisexual."After a messy divorce leaves him moving across the country to his aunt's wildlife sanctuary, the last thing Ryan expects is to meet a friendly zoologist with a pretty smile... and a pet tiger. Worse, when his attempts to secure an important donation for the sanctuary end in volunteering for a weekend away, he's left having to pretend to be Oscar's boyfriend.Ryan's always been a little bi-curious, and now he's all alone with a hot gay man he definitely feels a spark with. When the inevitable happens and they fall into bed together, Ryan doesn't expect it to last past the weekend--Oscar can do better, right? And he's leaving once his divorce settlement comes through, anyway.But there's more between them than one hot experiment, a connection neither man can deny.Can the two of them find their happily ever after? Or will Ryan's fear that he's not enough get the better of him?Sanctuary is a complete gay romance with a HEA ending. It contains: a tiger called Spot, a few eccentric rich people, explicit sex scenes, lots of alligators, and true love conquering all.
