It should have just been a simple vacation, away from everyone and everything to clear my head. But I soon realized I wasn't alone. He stalked me, hunted me. I should've run faster, tried harder. But the truth was I liked him chasing me. Wolf was a ruthless man, his way of living barbaric. Now he had me in his off-the-grid cabin, what he deemed my new home. I was his new wife, would have his babies. I was his irrevocably. I shouldn't have felt arousal. But I did. He's not going to let me escape ... but then again, maybe I don't want to. Warning: This one has bite to it—even if it's NOT paranormal! As per the usual ... it's short and fast and pretty unrealistic ... but it gets right down to the juicy bits. It's one of those stories that will have you wanting to find your own Wolf in the woods.
