What do you do when mere infatuation stemmed from a Facebook post, turns into pure obsession? How do you go on being your loving self when someone takes everything you post on social media to heart? These are questions Cassidy asks herself as a secret admirer suddenly enters her life. The stalker's thirst for blood and vengeance becomes stronger than his thirst for Cassidy's love over time. That's when he starts to murder any obstacle that stands in his path. One by one he kills innocent people just to get close to Cassidy. In the end his obsession with her proves to be deadly to others as well as himself. When the tables turn and the stalker is revealed, he meets Cassidy's boyfriend Zo. Will his defense of, "She Said She Loved Me!!" work? Will the stalker survive and turn the tables on the two or will his obsession be the death of him?
