

[Free PDF File] We Wish to Inform You That Tomorrow We Will Be Killed with Our Families: Stories from Rwanda

CONTINUE ►

National Book Critics Circle, Nonfiction, 1999 In April of 1994, the government of Rwanda called on everyone in the Hutu majority to kill everyone in the Tutsi minority. Over the next three months, 800,000 Tutsis were murdered in the most unambiguous case of genocide since Hitler's war against the Jews. This haunting work by Philip Gourevitch, staff writer for the New Yorker, is an anatomy of the killings in Rwanda, a vivid history of the genocide's background, and an unforgettable account of what it means to survive in its aftermath.
