"100 Hands-on Indoor Activities for toddlers and preschoolers" is full of interactive, creative and fun activities to cultivate talents and curiosities. Kids are always busy doing something. This book is my effort to offer resources which will provide plenty of opportunities to learn and explore during each activity. Being a mother, I don't recommend that children younger than 2 years of age should spend time watching television or any other electronic media. For toddlers, sitting and watching television and the use of other electronic media should be limited to less than one hour per day. Being active is important for all children as they grow and develop. Parents/Educators must lead by example. Be an active role model for the child and have a positive attitude to being active. If you child sees you enjoying the activity and having fun it can encourage them to participate.
