Journey Anderson is determined to get her life back on track after suffering the loss of her mother. When her father walks out of her and her brother Darnel's life, it leaves the two to fin for themselves. With the slack now on Darnel to care for Journey, he feels like the weight of the world is placed on his shoulders. He doesn't let that stop him though, because Journey's wellbeing is all the motivation that he needs to continue to go hard in the streets and hustle to make a way out of no way for the two. Things quickly start to look up for Darnel when he is offered the opportunity of a life time. Now fast forward six months later, Journey is finding out firsthand how hard it is to maintain without Darnel by her side every step of the way now that she is a college student living on her own in Atlanta Georgia. Twenty-Four-Year-Old Harlem "Steel" Cooper has the streets of Atlanta on lock. He has everything that his heart can desire, but no one to share his success with. After suffering a major heartbreak, Harlem puts his guard up and makes a vowel to himself that he will never trust another female with his heart again. He seems to be making good on his promise in shutting women out of his life, until he encounters the beautiful feisty Journey. At first, the two can't seem to see eye to eye with each other, but that quickly starts to change after Journey lands the job as the new sitter for Harlem's little brother Scooter and the two are forced to put their differences aside and be causal with each other for the sake of Scooter. Frisco is Harlem's Twenty-Five-Year-Old hot-headed cousin who live by no one rules but his own. With a passion to cause destruction everywhere he goes, Frisco has no desire in changing his malicious way. That's until he meets Breonna who is equally crazy as him, possibly worst then him. Casey is Journey's childhood best friend who falls off the face of the earth one day when her mom decides it was time for a change and the two up and live North Carolina without letting anyone know. At first, Journey is hurt by the news, but then she eventually gets over it. Now, five years later, Journey is shocked to see her long lost best friend down in Atlanta. The two begin to talk and it's just like old times again. Journey is happy that the two can rekindle their friendship. Casey on the other hand sees it as an opportunity to help her escape the skeletons that she has hiding in her closet. With lies and deceit lingering in the air, it's hard to tell who truly has your back. See how loyalty is tested, and lines get crossed. Find out who has what it takes to love a boss.
