We've all had the experience of buying a 300 page travel guide, only to need 20 of its pages. We've all also spent countless hours sifting through undecipherable and confusing travel information that's free and available online. Blogs, travel sites, magazines; the options are endless. Your friend-of-a-friend's best Instagram picture of a beach doesn't give you a clue about where to go. Relying on a travel blogs review of an Italian restaurant by a stranger from Alaska is about as helpful as throwing darts at a map. We created Chrome Traveler for a specific traveler, a traveler whose goal is to enjoy a vacation within reason. Unlike many travelers, you don't mind paying for unique experiences. You know the value of great food and drinks, but you hate getting ripped off. Your travel goal is not to set a record for getting the best value. You want the best hotel for your budget, which never ever includes a hostel. You despise wasting time and appreciate the little vacation time you get. You've found the right guide. Chrome Traveler helps you maximize time, minimize frustration, sleep at excellent hotels, and enjoy superior meals and experiences without needlessly burning money. We've created this guide in the same vein: it's straightforward, concise, and affordable. It has links to hotel websites and connects to google maps. It's the 20 pages of a travel guide you actually want, written for your lifestyle and taste, at the price of what those 20 pages should cost.
