True love is waiting for her back in twelfth century Scotland. If only she can find it. When she was twelve, Alice met a boy she fell in love with. Then he vanished as if he'd never existed. Ten years later she finds a portrait of him in a museum dedicated to highland history. But how can the boy in the centuries old painting be the same boy she once met? Reaching out to touch the past she suddenly finds herself in the middle ages and in the middle of a clan war. In the distance is someone she recognizes. Someone very special. Ramsey MacClean never expected to see Alice again. All his efforts have been focused on getting his lairdship back from the cruel usurper who snatched it from him. The last thing he needs is a distraction. But when a beautiful woman appears from nowhere his willpower starts to crumble. What's worse is it's the one woman he always swore to protect. Now he must choose between his clan and his desire. He knows he must let Alice go and concentrate on saving his people but the magic that brought her back has one final spell to cast, a spell that might just change the entire future of the highlands.
