When I was dead, all I wanted was to be alive. Now that I'm human again, all I want to do is die. Being alive is tough. Especially after three hundred years of being a vampire. But now that I'm human again, I've decided to do what any nineteen-year-old human girl does: go to university. I thought it would be a breeze. After all, how many other students have the kind of life experience I have? Everything was going great (well, not great. I did embarrass myself in front of the campus heart-throb), until the only real friend I made was murdered. And not just murdered ritually sacrificed. And here I thought college would offer me the typical human experience. Looks like I'm going to have to dust off my vampire huntress skills and test them out in a human body. My name is Katrina Darlingex-vampire, re-human-ated university student and totally pissed off. If you like Linsey Hall, Shannon Mayer, CN Crawford, Ilona Andrews, AL Knorr, or Patricia Briggs, you will LOVE the FIRST installment of the MORTALITY BITES.
